

Fredrik Söderqvist is a senior economist at Unionen, a white-collar private sector union, and Sweden's largest trade union. He is also a PhD student in industrial economics at the Blekinge Institute of Technology. His research interests lie in law and economics, structural change, and labour market resilience.